INTRODUCTION

Welcome to the third edition of The Costume Directory, with additional revisions and entries, marked with a ★. The Costume Directory is a free resource, put together as a starting point to share information and ideas across costume departments. It is intended as a resource that takes the 'hassle' out of finding suppliers and brands who are committed to upholding the rights of people and nature, and who prioritize sustainability, environmental responsibility and fair trade.

In the past 50 years, humans have consumed more resources than in all previous history. The global textile industry has a huge social and environmental impact with the majority of textiles in the world produced in developing countries such as India, China, Pakistan and Turkey. This industry relies on cheap labour and exploitation, with millions of farmers, weavers and garment manufacturers working long hours for little or no pay, in unsafe conditions, using dangerous chemicals without the proper protection or processes. Textiles require an abundance of natural resources such as land use, water, trees, energy and crude oil. And the production of textiles produces immense amounts of carbon emissions, pollutants and waste.

By its nature, costume supports the take - make - waste economy as we ultimately produce or source one off items, that will be worn a few times at the most. But we have the capacity, and must do all that we can, to operate in a far more socially and environmentally responsible manner to protect our living planet and all those who inhabit it. As a massive consumer, we have to take responsibility for the impact of our work. On any given project we buy or make more clothes than the average person will own in a life-time, so while it may seem that making small changes to your costume department is not going to change the industry as a whole, costume designers can make simple choices that will contribute to a wider tidal wave of change.

This directory is an index of contacts, as opposed to a definitive guide on all things ethical and sustainable. It notes some of the varying criteria and credentials to look for when choosing a supplier, and the standards that can help to understand a company's priorities and efforts. Organic? Recycled? Fairtrade? Local? Vegan? There are minefields of things to consider when deciding which element of "ethical" you are trying to address, but our intention is not for designers to compromise their design or blow their budget, by trying to tick every box. It is simply about consciously addressing the decisions being made, and seeing if they could be done in a more mindful way. It is important to contact suppliers in order to verify any information included, and to check for updates or changes in policy.

The directory has been put together by two people in their spare time (!) and its aim is to get us collectively, as the costume industry, to address the impact our work has on the world, and to see if we can do things differently. It is intended to be a collaborative project so please get involved with any ideas and updates! The book is not regularly updated so if you see anything that is no longer correct, or find any of the companies are no longer in operation, please let us know.

REASONS FOR CHANGE

1. EXPLOITATIVE LABOUR / FORCED LABOUR

Textile production and garment manufacturing predominately takes place in developing countries where labour is cheap, often poorly regulated and human rights abuses are endemic. It is currently estimated that 1 of every 5 cotton garments on the global marketplace has been tainted by forced labour. Even fast fashion made in Europe and the UK has been linked to labour exploitation and abuse. Choosing to support brands and suppliers who aim for fair working conditions and compensation can make a huge impact on workers lives as well as supporting improved standards industry wide.

2. CHILD LABOUR

The International Labour Organization estimates that as of 2020 there are approximately 160 million child labourers in the world, predominately working in the textile and garment manufacturing industries. Children should have access to education - obtaining an education directly contributes to improved livelihoods.

3. HAZARDOUS WORKING CONDITIONS

Unsafe working conditions have resulted in numerous avoidable tragedies over the past decade. At its worst, 1134 people were killed and thousands more injured in the collapse of the Rana Plaza building in Bangladesh in 2013, which housed factories making clothes for 29 global brands and millions of individuals. The accident was predicted, and entirely preventable. Since Rana Plaza, The Fashion Revolution has encouraged increased transparency industry wide but many brands still lack understanding of their supply chains, preventing them from being able to enforce fair working conditions.

4. HAZARDOUS CHEMICALS

Workers and the wider communities where textiles are produced and processed can be exposed to hazardous chemicals which cause disease through direct contact or pollution in the air or water.

5. LAND GRABS AND DEFORESTATION

Irresponsible fabric sourcing has led to land grabs in areas which are resource rich, resulting in the displacement of indigenous peoples, communities and the destruction of forests. In particular in Indonesia and Brazil, wood based fabrics such as rayon, viscose and modal have been linked to land grabs and deforestation. (Rainforest Action Network) The deforestation and degradation of tropical rainforests for the production of leather and cellulosic fibres – and by extension our shoes and clothes – releases vast amounts of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere every year. Rainforests are cleared every year to meet the demand for cattle and leather (Visit Global Canopy for more information - The Global Canopy Forest 500 ranking identifies the 500 companies and financial institutions with the greatest influence on tropical deforestation)

6. DEPLETION OF RESOURCES

Conventionally produced cotton and petrochemical based fabrics are massive polluters and consume a significant amount of energy, fuel and produce millions of tons of CO₂. The textile industry is one of the major consumers of water and fuel.

7. FARMER DEBT

GM company Monsanto controls 95% of the cotton seed market in India. Increasingly expensive, pesticides can make up 60% of the costs of cotton production, eating into diminishing returns and pushing farmers into debt (cottonedon.org). Pests exposed to synthetic pesticides build up a resistance to them so that, each year, farmers have to buy and use more pesticides to grow the same amount of cotton. Organic cotton benefits cotton producers and the environment by avoiding harmful chemical use and providing social benefits such as debt prevention.

8. WATER POLLUTION

Organic farming practices create healthy soils which make better use of water inputs and are more resilient in drought conditions. By eliminating the use of synthetic pesticides and fertilisers, organic cotton keeps waterways and drinking water safe and clean. The water pollution impact of organic cotton has been shown to be 98% less than non-organic cotton production (The Soil Association UK)

9. ANIMAL WELFARE

Many certified textiles also consider animal welfare and insure animals are not exposed to many of the cruel practices which are par for the course in the fashion industry. There are an increasing number of producers who do not test dyes or inks on animals and who use organic crops that encourage biodiversity and improve the quality of the ecosystems in the natural environment. And there are an increasing number of natural alternatives to animal skins.

10. TEXTILE WASTE

In the UK, over 1 million tonnes of textiles are sent to landfill or incinerated every year resulting in increased waste and carbon emissions. Synthetic fibres can take up to 200 years to decompose. While natural fibres such as wool decompose but produce methane which contributes to global warming. (BIR.org) Every scrap of fabric can be recycled or reused and given new life – they are either spun into new fibre, or shredded for industrial use such as roofing felt, car insulation, loudspeaker cones etc. (BIR.org)

11. COVID 19 IMPACTS

The economic repercussions of Covid-19 have exacerbated existing inequalities within global supply chains with retroactive order cancellations by leading brands, mass layoffs and factory closures, and nonpayment of legally mandated wages and severances. According to the Workers Rights Consortium, garment workers' declining incomes are leading to widespread hunger among workers and their families, as they are increasingly unable to obtain adequate food and nutrition. These dynamics are a direct result of apparel brands' responses to the Covid-19 pandemic, as well as the long-term trend of low wages for garment workers in brands' supply chains, which has left workers unprotected.

12. TRANSPARENT SUPPLY CHAIN

Buying from brands that prioritise transparency will contribute towards a global movement to better understand supply chains. Better understanding a supply chain is a critical step in being able to identify areas for environmental and social improvements in practices. For more information consult the Fashion Transparency Index c/o fashionrevolution.org

WHAT TO LOOK FOR WHEN CHOOSING A SUPPLIER

Provenance: Supply chain transparency is key when choosing any supplier. A good supplier will be able to identify every stage of production - from seed to final product. If this information is not displayed on their website, it is advisable to contact the company directly for more information. By asking questions you can better understand the supplier and their reasons for not disclosing such information, as well as encouraging them to do so in the future.

Certified: It is important to consider a company's ethical and or environmental credentials, and ask to see evidence (such as a certificate) to back up any claims around sustainability, eco-friendliness and safe and fair working conditions. This chapter contains some of the most common certifications to look out for. Each certificate generally covers a specific area, process or production run - some of the certificates listed cover companies and some cover the actual products. Ideally, suppliers would have a form of Fairtrade certification, which covers social issues and working environment, as well as an agricultural or environmental certificate. The GOTS certificate (Global Organic Textile Standard) is the gold standard in terms of textiles, as it identifies a fabric or product as being both organic and Fairtrade.

Un-certified: There are of course, some grey areas regarding certification. Some of the more widely known certifications and standards such as GOTS or Fairtrade, have to be paid for by the supplier. They also require three years of tax returns, and naturally, require suppliers to meet exceptionally high standards. This is not always possible, or affordable, for small-scale businesses or co-operatives. However, in these instances, it is particularly important to contact a company directly and ask for more information, and consult online forums such as The Sustainable Angle or The Common Objective. In this directory, some listings are labelled as "un-certified organic" or "no-certification" or "fair trade", rather than "Fairtrade certified". That is because, having dealt with them personally, or having done a certain amount of research on the company, we feel their claims can be supported. We strongly believe in supporting small scale artisans and co-operatives, who are working to preserve and promote traditional crafts.

It is crucial that you identify what is most important to you in terms of ethics - be it animal welfare, artisan empowerment or organic farming, and investigate suppliers thoroughly with this in mind. Most will meet all of the above criteria, but some may focus on one over the other.

BETTER COTTON INITIATIVE [BCI]

The Better Cotton Initiative (BCI) is a not-for-profit organisation stewarding the global standards for Better Cotton, and bringing together cotton's complex supply chain, from the farmers to the retailers.

BCI exists to make global cotton production better for the people who produce it, better for the environment it grows in and better for the sector's future, by developing Better Cotton as a sustainable mainstream commodity.

BLUESIGN®

The bluesign® certification combines aspects of consumer safety, water and air emissions and occupational health, with a particular focus on the reduction of harmful substance usage at early stages of production. Instead of testing finished products bluesign® system is applied at the point where the production starts. This means, that suppliers, manufacturers, retailers and brands have to go through rigorous tests in order to verify compliance with bluesign® criteria.

Bluesign® system guarantees the application of sustainable ingredients in a clean process at which end stands a safely manufactured product. As a result, the textile industry manages the natural resources soundly and responsibly, reduces water and air emissions, improves its waste water treatment and generally reduces its ecological footprint.

CRADLE TO CRADLE

Cradle to Cradle Certified® is a globally recognized measure of safer, more sustainable products made for the circular economy. To receive certification, products are assessed for environmental and social performance across five critical sustainability categories: material health, material reuse, renewable energy and carbon management, water stewardship, and social fairness. A product is assigned an achievement level (Bronze, Silver, Gold, Platinum) for each category. A product's lowest category achievement also represents its overall certification level. The standard encourages continuous improvement over time by awarding certification on the basis of ascending levels of achievement and requiring certification renewal every two years.

Fashion Positive have created a digital Materials Library: a curated collection of Cradle to Cradle Certified™ materials for fashion designers and brands. This digital resource will allow you to more easily find, research and use Cradle to Cradle Certified™ materials in your products.

EU ECO LABEL

The EU Ecolabel helps you identify products and services that have a reduced environmental impact throughout their life cycle, from the extraction of raw material through to production, use and disposal. Recognised throughout Europe, EU Ecolabel is a voluntary label promoting environmental excellence which can be trusted

The EU Ecolabel scheme is a commitment to environmental sustainability. The criteria have been developed and agreed upon by scientists, NGOs and stakeholders to create a credible and reliable way to make environmentally responsible choices. The EU Ecolabel scheme is a commitment to environmental sustainability.

FAIR WEAR FOUNDATION

Fair Wear Foundation (FWF) is an independent, non-profit organisation that works with companies and factories to improve labour conditions for garment workers.

FWF's 80 member companies represent over 120 brands, and are based in seven European countries; member products are sold in over 20,000 retail outlets in more than 80 countries around the world. FWF is active in 11 production countries in Asia, Europe and Africa.

FWF keeps track of the improvements made by the companies it works with. And through sharing expertise, social dialogue and strengthening industrial relations, FWF increases the effectiveness of the efforts made by companies.

FAIRTRADE

The FAIRTRADE Mark is a registered certification label for products sourced from producers in developing countries. FAIRTRADE are a global organisation working to secure a better deal for farmers and workers.

The Fairtrade certification system is run by an independent company called FLO-CERT. By checking compliance with Fairtrade Standards, FLO-CERT ensures that the relevant social and environmental standards are met for the raw materials and products that carry the FAIRTRADE Mark and that producers receive the Fairtrade Minimum Price and Fairtrade Premium. FLO-CERT auditors are highly qualified, usually based in the countries and regions where producers are located, and familiar with local cultures, languages, and legal systems.

GLOBAL RECYCLING STANDARD

The Global Recycled Standard (GRS) is an international, voluntary standard that sets the requirements for third-party certification of recycled input and chain of custody. The shared goal of the standards is to increase the use of recycled materials. The GRS includes additional criteria for social and environmental processing requirements and chemical restrictions.

The desired effects of the GRS include the alignment of recycled definitions across multiple applications, verified recycled content in products and to provide consumers (both brands and end consumers) with a tool to make informed decisions.

GLOBAL ORGANIC TEXTILE STANDARD [GOTS]

The Global Organic Textile Standard (GOTS) is recognised as the world's leading processing standard for textiles made from organic fibres. It defines high-level environmental criteria along the entire organic textiles supply chain and requires compliance with social criteria as well.

Only textile products that contain a minimum of 70% organic fibres can become GOTS certified. All chemical inputs such as dyestuffs and auxiliaries used must meet certain environmental and toxicological criteria. The choice of accessories is limited in accordance with ecological aspects as well. A functional waste water treatment plant is mandatory for any wet-processing unit involved and all processors must comply with minimum social criteria.

www.global-standard.org

The ISO 14000 family of standards provides practical tools for companies and organizations of all kinds looking to manage their environmental responsibilities.

The ISO 14001:2015 sets out the criteria for an Environmental Management System [EMS] and can be certified to. It maps out a framework that a company or organization can follow to set up an effective EMS. It can be used by any organization regardless of its activity or sector. Using ISO 14001:2015 can provide assurance to company management and employees as well as external stakeholders that environmental impact is being measured and improved.

The ISO 14001 is the world's most recognized framework for environmental policy that helps organizations both to manage better the impact of their activities on the environment and to demonstrate sound environmental management.

MADE IN GREEN BY OEKO-TEX®

Made in Green is a traceable consumer label for sustainable textiles. Each item with the Made in Green label features a unique product ID and/or a QR code allowing you to trace the article's production. Each product ID gives you visibility into the various stages of production as well as the countries in which textiles were manufactured.

As proof that Made in Green labelled products are harmless to health, they must successfully pass a laboratory test and certification based on the OEKO-TEX® Standard 100.

OEKO-TEX® STANDARD 100

The OEKO-TEX® Standard 100 is an independent testing and certification system for textile raw materials, intermediate and end products at all stages of production. Examples for items eligible for certification: Raw and dyed/finished yarns, raw and dyed/finished fabrics and knits, ready-made articles (all types of clothing, domestic and household textiles, bed linen, terry cloth items, textile toys and more).

Items are tested for harmful substances including illegal substances, legally regulated substances, known harmful (but not legally regulated) chemicals as well as parameters for health care

The requirement for certification of textile products according to OEKO-TEX® Standard 100 is that all components of an item have to comply with the required criteria without exception – that means in addition to the outer material also sewing threads, linings, prints etc. as well as non-textile accessories such as buttons, zip fasteners, rivets etc.

STEP BY OEKO-TEX®

'Sustainable Textile Production (STeP)' is the new OEKO-TEX® certification system for brands, retail companies and manufacturers from the textile chain who want to communicate their achievements regarding sustainable production to the public in a transparent, credible and clear manner. The objective of STeP is the permanent implementation of environmentally friendly production processes, optimum health and safety and socially acceptable working conditions.

Certification is possible for production facilities of all processing stages from fibre production, spinning mills, weaving mills, knitting mills to finishing facilities and manufacturers of ready-made textile items.

RESPONSIBLE WOOL STANDARD

The Responsible Wool Standard is a voluntary global standard that addresses the welfare of sheep and of the land they graze on. On farms, the certification ensures that sheep are treated with respect to their Five Freedoms and also ensures best practices in the management and protection of the land. Through the processing stages, certification ensures that wool from certified farms is properly identified and tracked.

The goals of the Responsible Wool Standard are to provide the industry with a tool to recognize the best practices of farmers; ensuring that wool comes from farms with a progressive approach to managing their land, and from sheep that have been treated responsibly.

RECYCLED CLAIM STANDARD

The TE Recycled Claim Standard (RCS) is a standard for tracking and verifying the content of recycled materials in a final product. The goal of the RCS is to give credibility to recycled content claims on products. By protecting the trust of consumers as they choose products made of recycled materials, they hope to contribute to the increased use of recycled materials, and a reduction in the amount of waste sent to landfills or incineration.

The TE Recycled Claim Standard verifies the presence and amount of recycled material in a final product through input and chain-of-custody verification from a third party. It allows for transparent, consistent and comprehensive independent evaluation and verification of recycled material content claims on products.

SOIL ASSOCIATION CERTIFIED

Soil Association Certification is the UK's largest organic certification body. Any product sold as 'organic' must comply with strict rules set at UK, European and international levels. These standards assure consumers they are buying genuinely organic products that can be fully traceable back to the farm.

For textile products, the Soil Association certificate covers manufacturers, processors, packers, brand-holders, importers, exporters, retailers and wholesalers. The Soil Association standards incorporate the Global Organic Textiles Standards (GOTS); this scheme therefore permits operators to apply the GOTS logo on product packaging.

WORLD FAIR TRADE ORGANISATION

The World Fair Trade Organization (WFTO) is a global network of organisations representing the Fair Trade supply chain.

WFTO is the home of fair traders: producers, marketers, exporters, importers, wholesalers and retailers that demonstrate 100% commitment to Fair Trade and apply the 10 WFTO Principles of Fair Trade to their supply chain.

WFTO's route to equity in trade is through the integrated supply chain. Practices used across the supply chain are checked against the WFTO Fair Trade Standard, a set of compliance criteria based on the 10 Fair Trade Principles and on International Labour Organisation (ILO) conventions.

WRAP

WRAP's vision is a world in which resources are used sustainably. Their mission is to accelerate the move to a sustainable resource-efficient economy through, re-inventing how we design, produce and sell products, re-thinking how we use and consume products, and re-defining what is possible through re-use and recycling.

Their facilities certification program is based on lawful, humane and ethical manufacturing within the apparel, footwear and sewn products sector.

FABRIC SUPPLIERS

All of the fabric suppliers listed in this directory demonstrate an effort toward environmental consciousness and social justice. Their specific eco-credentials are listed, however, it is important to constantly check in with these companies, and question whether their policies and certificates still stand. The information listed about each company is generally provided by the company themselves.

Below is an overview of the most common fabrics and a brief description of their ecological properties. It is important to understand that no single fibre type offers the lowest impact in all categories, demonstrating that we must prioritize the most important impact areas when determining the fibre with the lowest impact.

Cotton: Conventional cotton uses more chemicals and water than any other crop. Organic cotton, however, is an ecologically responsible fibre, is never genetically modified and does not use any highly polluting agrochemicals. Integrated soil and pest management techniques, such as crop rotation, are practiced in organic cotton cultivation. Organic cotton absorbs CO₂ but is still a water intensive crop/ fibre.

Hemp / Nettle: Hemp grows extremely fast in any kind of climate. Hemp is mostly grown organically in that it does not exhaust the soil, uses little water and requires no pesticides or herbicides. Its skin is tough and insect resistant and it is often used as a rotation crop. It is rarely certified, though it is widely considered to be the most sustainable crop available.

Linen / Flax: By its nature linen is far more sustainable a crop than conventional cotton, however, herbicides are commonly used in conventional cultivation. Organic flax farming produces stronger seeds, and crops are rotated to minimize weeds and potential disease.

Bamboo: Bamboo is a highly sustainable crop as it is fast growing, does not require pesticides and does not claim farming land. It is also a much better CO₂ extractor and oxygen emitter than trees, and its products are biodegradable and recyclable. However, bamboo fabric is controversial as its typical production methods require the use of chemical solvents and heavy bleaching, similar to how rayon or viscose is made. There are many suppliers who produce bamboo fabric with integrity, in a closed loop system, but it is worth considering the fabric's production impacts and questioning individual suppliers on how their fabric was produced.

Silk: Silk is a complicated fabric when it comes to determining its ethical and ecological properties. The vast majority of mass produced mulberry silk starts its life in developing countries such as China and India, though it may be spun and woven elsewhere. For this reason, it is important to choose suppliers who identify themselves as fair trade. The organic cultivation of mulberry on an industrial scale is at the moment limited, however demand is slowly changing this. Silk production is also innately cruel in its treatment of silk worms. Ahimsa Silk (Peace Silk) and Wild Silk are vegan silks, which do not harm silk worms in their production.

Wool: The sustainability of wool relies on the farms where sheep have been reared, together with the spinning and weaving processes that follow. Buying Soil Association organic certified wool (or equivalent certification) means the wool comes from farms that value the sheep and the environment. Specific suppliers of British wool such as Harris Tweed and Skye Weavers have also been included in this directory, due to their preserving of traditional crafts, and also that their production methods are practically carbon neutral. Yak and Alpaca wool are gaining recognition as sustainable alternatives to commercially produced cashmere.

Synthetic Fabrics: Synthetic fabrics such as Nylon, Polyester and Acrylic are increasingly replacing natural fabric use. Man-made fabrics are largely made up of petrochemicals and oil, which have numerous negative impacts on the environment and people, as well as increasingly limited availability. However, synthetic fibre production can be much less water and energy demanding than many natural options and there are increasingly more up-cycled and recycled options that also support land waste diversion and the possibility of closed loop life cycles.

They thrive as the last remaining mill in the area due to their passion for continuing the lace and madras production tradition with the aid of new forms of product development and innovation. Thanks to this capability, the creative in-house design team often work in collaboration with client-based designers on bespoke projects, using their expertise to deliver a completely unique product to the client. Projects in the past have involved translating metalwork to lace, recreating archive museum textiles and As most MYB fabrics are sourced from original archive drawings, they are able to supply historically accurate designs for many film and television productions. Failing the discovery of an exact time period match amongst the MYB collections, exclusive pieces are often created.

They use only 100% GOTS certified cotton. The environment is a priority, which is why their cotton is only naturally rain-irrigated and their hand-powered machines allow them to produce all their denim in Bihar's rural areas without draining any of the region's vital energy supply. The result is a genuine 100% natural denim produced in such a way that empowers local economies and local workers, avoids artificial chemicals and limits water and energy consumption. Samples available on request

— LEATHER

The term “ethical leather” is very subjective, depending on your stance on animal rights, human consumption of meat and environmental impacts. According to the BLC, the biggest issues regarding the environmental impact of leather, concern the chemicals released during the manufacturing process, from farm to finished product, and also how it degrades at the end of its life-cycle.

Traceable Hides: So long as people are eating meat, many people consider leather, particularly bovine and fish leather, to be a by-product of the meat industry (This argument is open to a lot of debate). Similar to the issues surrounding meat, in order for leather to be considered ethical, hides must be traced to the farms where the animals were reared, and to the slaughterhouses where they were killed, to ensure the animals were killed in a humane way and are in fact a by or co product of the meat industry. Untraced leather often comes from a completely different supply chain to that of meat. Tracing the supply chain of an animal skin is very difficult to do, although it is increasingly becoming a requirement

Vegetable Tanned: An estimated 80% of leather is chrome tanned. Chrome tanning is a very toxic, water intensive process. REACH European regulations have restricted the use of chrome tanning in the EU, and have regulated how chemicals are disposed of. However, in India and China, who produce the majority of leather globally, tanneries largely go unregulated, with numerous reports of untreated chrome and heavy toxic chemicals contaminating water supplies and causing serious health problems. The advised option is to source vegetable tanned leather from a European tannery, who can trace the source of their hides. Vegetable tanning does not involve the use of harsh chemicals and is therefore much kinder to the environment, and those that are working with it.

Fish Leather: Most people are aware of the ethical issues surrounding exotic skins, so “fish leather” suppliers have been included in this directory as an alternative. Although there are many issues surrounding the sustainability of fish, fish leather can be considered a sustainable alternative so long as suppliers guarantee where it has been sourced from, and that it is a by-product of the food industry, using skins that would otherwise be discarded. Fish leather is particularly strong, has a similar appearance to snake skin, and can be quickly tanned using a non-toxic tanning process. Fish leather has a 100% usable surface so there is no material loss.

Alternative / Vegan Leather: many of the “plastic leather” options are petrochemical based such as PVC and therefore large polluters so are not recommended. Polyurethane [PU], is slightly better as it requires less chemicals and some manufacturers are producing PU with plant based ingredients which makes it biodegradable.

Natural leather alternatives: A lot of exciting developments have been made in recent years with successful leather-look fabrics being made from components such as pineapple or mushroom. At time of print, these fabrics have made their way into the fashion industry, being championed by designers such as Stella Mc Cartney and Pozu Shoes, but are tricky to get hold of in small quantities. It is worth following the progress of companies such as Bolt Threads and Pinatex to stay up to date with their work, and to find out when they start selling commercially. Bark Cloth, and Cork which are more readily available to purchase are also excellent natural leather alternatives.

SLW is a Canadian company and the agent of a fish leather manufacturer, carefully selecting, processing and transforming a variety of fish skins into a unique and exotic leather. This leather can be dyed in a variety of colours, and is available in suede and glazed finishes.

The leather is processed from the finest quality skins of non-endangered fish species including carp, pacific salmon, bass, sturgeon, shark, catfish, salmon and Nile perch. The fish skin leather has been under development for over 20 years. The tanning process ensures odourless products and prevents stiffness.

They offer stock-lots, by texture, colour selection, or species, which are discounted from regular skin pricing, and have a section of odds and ends. They also have a "factory seconds" section on their website.

DYEING AND PRINTING

The risks to human health, and the environment, posed by chemicals found in many synthetic dyes and solvents are widely reported - particularly chemicals such as aniline, dioxin, formaldehyde and toxic heavy metals such as chrome, copper, and zinc.

The impacts are something that have to be considered in terms of any product being purchased which has been dyed, or any dyeing and printing that we carry out ourselves

The alternatives include:

Natural Dyes: Natural dyes are dyes or colourants derived from plants, invertebrates, or minerals. The majority of natural dyes are vegetable dyes from plant sources—roots, berries, bark, leaves, and wood—and other organic sources such as fungi and lichens. The use of natural dyes involves using mordants, it is very important what mordant is used. While Alum is thought to be the most environmental friendly option. Metals such as Chrome, Tin, and Copper should be avoided. It is also very important how the polluted waste water is disposed of at the end of the process. Ideally water should be filtered with the solid particles composted.

Low Impact / AZO free dyes: Low-impact dyes are dyes with a higher than average absorption rate. This means less water is required in the rinse process and less dye runs off in the water, therefore, the dyes have a lower impact on the environment. Low-impact dyes do not contain heavy metals (like chrome, copper and zinc), nor do they require toxic chemical mordants to fix them to the fibre. They are an ecologically friendly solution that are used in a similar fashion to conventional dyes, are no more time consuming and there are a vast range of colours available. The best low impact dyes are those that are GOTS certified such as Dystar.

AZO free printing: Digital printing in general has a lower environmental impact than conventional printing methods as it can achieve savings in water and energy use and waste production. There are currently no digital printers in the UK using GOTS certified inks, however Les Trouvailles D'Amadine in France offers an excellent service. Silk Screen Printing is more wasteful, however, using water based or GOTS certified inks such as Permatex minimises its damage. Block printing is a printing tradition that creates employment for artisans and also has minimum impact on the environment.

They use natural materials at every stage of their production, creating dyes using locally available plants such as tansy, woad and lady's bedstraw. Dyes are pumped through to yarns, waiting in steam heated dye cabinets, in which the yarns become impregnated with the natural colours. As well as a bespoke service, they sell naturally dyed yarns for knitting and weaving

Glasgow

- Natural dye studio
- Homewares
- Sustainable textiles
- Ships from the UK

Wild Hues is a natural dye studio in Glasgow. They produce contemporary textile homewares and accessories, handmade in Glasgow using natural dyes on sustainably sourced cloth. They have carefully sourced a small selection of ethically and sustainably produced cloth, and use only a limited range of natural dyes which are traditionally known to produce the most colourfast results.

All of their work is created with reverence to the materials, respect to the traditions with which I am following, and careful consideration for the sustainability and ethics of the production process.

FASHION BRANDS

The movement around responsible fashion / ethical fashion and sustainability is constantly pushing forward and there are many resources available in the fashion world if you would like to learn more. The list of brands included in this directory is far from exhaustive and hasn't properly been updated since 2018, as new brands are constantly emerging, and a small amount of individual research online is likely to lead you to the perfect piece, with the right credentials. The majority of ethical brands exist online, but there are also some bricks and mortar boutiques dotted around the UK. Although more road miles are involved with online shopping, the overall environmental impact of running an online business is far less.

This list does not outline the ethics of each specific company, and so it is important to consider how a brand's principles reflect your own. If you are unsure, email the company directly.

The GOOD ON YOU app is an essential download for finding out where your chosen brand stands in terms of sustainability and social responsibility

Buy Second-Hand First: Costume houses, charity shops are such an obvious solution for any costumier looking to reduce their carbon footprint! Second hand, is always better than buying something new and extending the life of an item of clothing will reduce carbon, water and waste footprints. A selection of the most common vintage / second hand online sites have been included but there are many more!

Ethical Fashion Brands: A fashion brand with ethical credentials will communicate in a transparent way about what they are and are not doing. Beware of brands that "green-wash" and look for complete transparency in terms of fabrics used, where the garments were made, and a company's ethical principles. Some companies may boast impressive environmental credentials; however, this must align with a guarantee that all workers are paid a fair wage, and are working in a safe working environment.

High Street Brands: High street brands have generally been omitted, as there are few which can actually be considered "ethical" for a variety of reasons. To get a more comprehensive idea of how brands rate in terms of their ethics visit www.ethicalconsumer.org or www.projectjust.com. Resources such as the Fashion Revolution Transparency Index can also be a helpful resource when deciding what brands, you would like to support if you have to shop from the highstreet.

Ethical Shoes: Buying ethically produced shoes and trainers, is just as important as clothing. If not more so, given the number of chemicals workers are exposed to during their production. Fortunately, ethical shoes no longer means cork sandals, and there are numerous brands who are doing the right thing and paying workers fairly, and avoiding harsh chemicals.

Ethical Jewellery: Questioning the origin of gold, silver, precious metals and stones is very important to find companies who recognise the importance of conflict free mining and responsible sourcing.

— WARDROBE DEPARTMENT SUPPLIERS

It can be easy to make small changes in any costume department (without any hassle!), that can save money and also improve sustainability.

The following “green production tips” are recommended:

- Source second hand office supplies, furniture, equipment and truck supplies via Ebay and Freecycle.
- Ensure there are sufficient recycling facilities in all departments, workshops and kitchens, particularly for paper, plastics (bags, garment bags, bottles) and textile waste.
- Create a bin for fabric scrap waste in workrooms, and arrange for textile scrap collection with First Mile
- Reduce usage first! Rent as much as possible and avoid single use products. Try not to over order.
- Carry forward stationary, workroom and office supplies to future productions.
- Use cloth dress and shoe bags, or compostable garment bags instead of plastic dress bags.
- Buy recycled laundry bags and cardboard cast boxes
- Avoid throwing out hangers - return dry-cleaner’s hangers and bags to them.
- Buy Fairtrade groceries from ethical supermarkets.
- Use environmentally friendly ecological detergents and soaps such as Smol
- If buying new, buy energy efficient irons, steamers and kettles
- Consider fair trade and ethical brands when buying keep warm and comfort items.
- Buy cotton rather than syntethic fleece blankets
- When washing synthetic fabrics use a Cora Ball or a Guppy Friend to help reduce the number of microfibers going into the ocean
- Buy recyclable hand, foot and body warmers

— DRY CLEANING

Dry cleaning usually uses chlorinated solvents as detergents, the main one being PCE (perchloroethylene). This harsh chemical has been widely associated with damage to the environment and also poses risks for general health and safety. It has also been linked to increased incidences of cancer in dry-cleaning staff, and higher concentrations are found to affect air quality around dry-cleaning establishments.

Alternative options for 'dry clean only' garments:

CO₂: This works by taking the gas form of carbon dioxide and pressurizing it into a clear liquid. Then, soap and clothing are added to the pressurized liquid as in a traditional dry cleaning machine. It is thought to be highly effective in removing stains, however, CO₂ machines are very expensive to install and so it is not yet a widely available service in the UK. CO₂ has a very low environmental impact and is almost entirely non-toxic Wet Cleaning: This is a non-toxic, environmentally safe alternative to dry cleaning. It utilizes computer-controlled washing machines, biodegradable soaps and conditioners, and finishes the drying process by using special moisture sensitive dryers. Wet cleaning is not the same as laundry, and is perfect for using on any garment such as: silk, cashmere, woollens, and other fine delicates. According to the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), wet cleaning is the safest professional method of garment cleaning.

GreenEarth®: This process uses liquid silicone in place of petrochemicals. Essentially liquefied sand, silicone is non-hazardous and non-toxic to the environment. When released to the environment, it safely breaks down into the three natural elements it is made from: sand (SiO₂) and trace amounts of water and carbon dioxide. Which means it is safe for the air, water and soil. Liquid silicone is commonly found in shampoos and beauty products, so it is safe next to your skin and unlikely to cause irritation. This method is more widely available, as it costs the same as a machine that uses perchloroethylene, and so is not more expensive to either the dry cleaners, or the customer. It is a method that is safe to use on fragile garments, garments with sequins or crystals, but still offers the same level of cleaning as traditional dry cleaning.

Hydrocarbon: This is most like standard dry cleaning but the process uses solvents such as DF-2000, EcoSolv or Pure Dry. These petroleum-based solvents are less aggressive than perc and require a longer cleaning cycle. They are comparatively more ecologically friendly than perc, however, they are still solvents.

Taking exceptional care, they use water and biodegradable detergents, combined in very specific cleaning cycles for each type of fabric: controlled temperature, cycle duration and minimum mechanical action. The result is an incredibly effective and ecological clean for even the most delicate of silks, cashmeres and pure new wools. It is proven to out perform dry cleaning Blanc offers highly competitive prices, which are the equivalent or less than standard dry cleaning

RESPONSIBLE WRAP

At the end of every job there is always a mountain of unwanted items in need of a home - fabrics, scraps, clothing, hangers, irons, stationary, equipment, plastic bags ... everything can be mindfully repurposed with a little planning.

According to TRAIID in the UK, over 1 million tonnes of textiles are sent to landfills or incinerated every year resulting in increased waste and carbon emissions. All textile waste can be recycled in one form or another.

Fabric Off-Cuts and Scraps: Progress is being made as regards scrap recycling but at time of print, First Mile is the best option for ensuring every scrap can be recycled. They can send you a small number of sacks which you can fill as you go or at the end, and arrange collection. Small off cuts can also be sent to a scrapstore where it will be distributed to schools for art classes etc. Otherwise, a number of charities take scrap which they can then sell to textile recyclers such as iCo or TexAid. The smallest of scraps can be recycled into threads, or shredded for fillings for car seats etc. Reuseful Uk also have a directory of scrap-stores across the UK www.scrapstoresuk.org.

Fabric 1m plus: This can be passed on to scrapstores, fashion and costume schools, local theatre companies or to places such as Offset Warehouse.

Clothing and Shoes: Before offloading everything on a charity shop to be sold, there are some more direct ways clothing and shoes can be passed on. Warm coats and warm clothing can be handed directly to soup kitchens or refuge shelters, to be given to the homeless, and people in need. Suits, everyday outfits and shoes can be passed to charities such as Outfits or Suited and Booted, listed below.

Period clothing: Any historical costume items can be passed on to costume houses or schools who have a store for research and productions.

Furniture and Equipment: Setting up or dismantling a department? Try Freecycle, Ebay or sourcing and redistributing second hand, before buying new.

FIRST MILE RECYCLING

www.thefirstmile.co.uk/business-waste/recycling-services/clothes-recycling

Donate: :

- Fabric and trim - any size
- Fabric samples and scraps
- Clothing
- Damaged clothing
- Hangers

Every textile recycling sack collected by First Mile is carefully sorted. Damaged clothes that can't be fixed are sent to a recycling facility where they're separated, shredded and turned into new materials.

If you're a fashion brand and produce a high amount of clothes frequently, we can help your company by recycling fabric scraps and product samples so they don't end up incinerated or in a landfill.

They also recycle hangers and plastics

FREecycle

- Women's clothing in good condition

Give Your Best aims to empower people in need of women's clothes who are refugees, seeking asylum, destitute, with no recourse to public funds or with precarious immigration status, through access to choice. We want to contribute to restoring people's dignity as they choose what they want to wear from our catalogue of donated clothing, where people can 'shop' for free.

They are also passionate about sustainability and tackling donation waste.

OUTFITS

Donate: :

- Good condition mens and womens clothing and accessories

OutFits is a UK charity started by a group of costume designers, in consultation with prison governors, to coordinate the distribution of clothing at the end of film / tv shoots to prisons across the UK. The idea for OutFits was born from the knowledge that when prisoners are released they are often wearing standard "prison" garments, and carrying their possessions in a black plastic bag. The clothing acquired for the cast and supporting actors of every contemporary film or tv drama shoot is dispersed at the end of filming, and everyday items are generally donated to charity. But occasionally through time pressures these clothes are disposed of unsustainably, or even just dumped. There had to be a way to link this together. If you are finishing a job and have good quality clothing you're willing to pass on, please contact the team

“In actively seeking out fair-trade fabrics, we have found some truly great textiles. The traditional, artisanal hand methods used to weave fabrics such as khadi cotton, married with natural dyes, lend an authenticity to period costumes that is difficult to match with machine made cloth”

Jacqueline Durran, Costume Designer

“If we don’t all do our ‘bit’ to help combat global warming / climate change we could easily end up in Mad Max’s wasteland. This book will help us all do our bit”

Jenny Beavan, Costume Designer

“I have always been appalled by the amount of waste created on film sets. With a little bit of thought all the raw materials could be recycled or donated”

Sandy Powell, Costume Designer

The background of the page is a photograph of a film set. A red carpet is laid out on a dirt surface, leading towards a white van. The scene is outdoors, and the lighting suggests it might be late afternoon or early morning. The text is overlaid on a semi-transparent white box in the center of the image.

“The Directory’s tremendous resources have educated me. It is good to know that we costume designers have choices to help protect our planet”

- Betsy Heimann, Costume Designer

“It’s high time we were more responsible. The short term nature of our contracts allows for so much bad behaviour and results in us being far more slack with our environmental values than we are at home. This directory encourages best practice”

- Jane Petrie, Costume Designer

‘There is strong environmental movement in the film and TV sectors - it is led by those who understand the social importance of environmental preservation. These pioneers are making it easier than ever before for others to follow. I am delighted that this journey is now underway for costume departments, let’s hope more follow’
